Q: Problems in C# using BSON I am trying to use BSON to serialize a class. However, I am receiving an exception stating: No inherited from from BSON.BsonClassMap Here is my simplified code:

class Client { public string Name { get; set; } public IList Groups { get; set; } public Client(string name) { Name = name; Groups = new List {"admin"}; } } class Server { public Server() { DeserializeFromBson("{}"); } public void DeserializeFromBson(string json) { BSON.BsonClassMap.RegisterClassMap(cm => { cm.AutoMap(); cm.IgnoreUnmapped = true; }); } }

I tried to use [JsonProperty(PropertyName = "Name")] on the class, but it does not work. Any suggestions?

A: Assuming that you would like to generate a BSON document from a class with auto mappings enabled, you would like to use BSON.BinaryClassMap instead of BSON.BsonClassMap because it handles unmapped properties. See the documentation of how to use this with AutoMapper Framework: Bson

[FULL] caldsoft 7 com crack Crack Free Download Ask HN: Conferences without sleep - briananov2 A friend of mine is a software engineer and does not take naps (even though everyone around him does). He does exercises regularly but does not rest for more than 20 min at night. He often finds that he can sleep 8 hours easily. His definition of not taking a nap is waking up without having slept for at least 20 min. He has been doing this for nearly 2 years now and it has a huge impact on his life. He recently asked me and my understanding of it is that it is not healthy to have such long periods of time without sleeping. When will this have an impact on his life? I feel that this has become harmful. ===== traceroute66 Do you know if this person has explored other strategies to ensure he is not tired after a workout? I have been running for 6 years and about a year ago I started getting regular nap breaks (I'm not a classic 20min nap - about 40-50 min). I now take an hour nap after I run. I feel much better after I run. Now if I don't nap, I feel tired, although I don't suffer the infamous post- run grogginess that many do. ~~~ briananov2 It's something he has looked into. Since then, he has noticed that having a nap is better than having a night rest. But then, he doesn't take naps after his daily run, so it's hard to judge. He has also taken a longer rest after his daily run, and that has helped him. So, although he is familiar with various strategies, he still can't come to a firm conclusion. ----- davismwfl Sleep is not a speed of light and night is not the same in everyone. We are simply born different. He needs to sleep when he sleeps and that is the most healthy way to sleep. Going without for extended periods of time can cause harm long term so you just need to be informed. When he wakes up, is he able to function? I would expect he is since he has been doing this so long. Just because he is tired does not mean he is ill. Typically we use that as a synonym for not being able to function well 648931e174
